

Lance Mitchell Davis

4/27/15

1st

Reflection Paper

My view on the career path I had chosen before I started this class has not changed.

However I did learn a lot from how to market myself as a sports writer. In that process I figured out how to get the ball moving on that. As of right now I have my own sports blog to help me build a profile to get started in the toughest business to get into and be successful.

The confidence I have gained while in this course is very valuable it has lead to various possible opportunities this year. Including interviews with various sports websites who like the articles I have written so far. Other things we have done this year has helped with confidence and the know how to interview over the phone.

This course prepared me on how to find additional information in various fashions from using other people to researching different fields for the area on the internet. I feel like I gained a lot of confidence and knowledge on how to research various fields for my career. This confidence will help further my education in my career path.

Personally its very hard to pick just one thing that says this is most important thing that I have learned; but since I have to pick one I would say the knowledge gained on how to write a proper resume. That skill set will be very important and will always stay with me throughout my life. I will use this skill throughout my entire life for different jobs and such.

My advice for anybody wanting to take this class does it! It is an extremely great class to use as a tool for the future. It will get you ready for the real world with all the know how to things such as building an resume, interviewing for a job, working with people, and being a leader. The skills you will learn in this class will stick with you forever in anything and everything you do. You will look back on this class and be thankful for all the skills that you have learned.

Lance Mitchell Davis

4/27/15

1st